Further Data on Proposed Trip

S. S. "METAGAMA"

Hearty Support to be Offered by Prominent Britishers

An official statement regarding the trip to Great Britain for college students has been received at the Principal's Office. It will be of interest to all those intending to take the trip. It was announced several days ago in the Daily that the party would sail on June 12, but as may be seen by the statement, the date has been changed. Other arrangements are mentioned, but all plans are not yet completed.

It has been found advisable to delay the sailing date to June 26th, when the party will sail from Montreal by Canadian Pacific S. S. "Metagama" under the same conditions as previously suggested for the S. S. "Marloch". This change is necessitated to facilitate the provision of University accomodation at Edinburgh, Oxford and London. It is still too early to give a definite idea of the programme, but certain information is now available which will answer a number of enquiries which have reached this office during the past few weeks. It is anticipated that a general outline of the programme will be available by the end of January or early in February.

In response to numerous applications it has been decided that the tour, subject to the necessary accomodation being available in Great Britain, shall be open to both men and women students. Co-operation on the tour which is already assured by the lady members of the different University Faculties, will make the inclusion of women undergraduates possible.

It was previously suggested that the inclusive fare from Montreal would be $250.00 to $275.00 This will probably require to be slightly increased, and it may be necessary to ask for a deposit of $325.00. The same procedure will be followed as in the Teachers' Tour, i. e. an audited statement will be prepared at the end of the visit, and any balance remaining will be refunded to the students. The additional cost is partly accounted for by an extension of the programme, and partly because accomodation on the other side presents unexpected difficulties and will be rather more expensive than at first expected. It is now realised that an anticipated reduction in Third-Class Steamship Fares will not likely be made, and this is again a factor in the increase now indicated.

The greatest interest is being evinced in Great Britain, in the proposed visit. At Oxford, the Master of Balliol and Sir Michael Sadler are most enthusiastic in their endorsation and their desire to help, and a most interesting progremme is there assured.

Watsonians to Foregather at Ritz on January 18th.

There is a bond between graduates of the same college that time cannot break, graduates of the same college are meeting the world over. Now, in far off "Bonnie Scotland' there is a university called Edinburgh University, and affiliated with that renowned and venerable institution are two colleges, Archibald Place and Myreside. It is the custom of the graduates of these colleges, no matter in what part of this earth they be, to foregather on January 18th of each year. The object of this re-union is to honor the founding of their college and also to eat and drink and grow merry, and renew old friendships.

So with that object in view some 26 Watsonians will gather at the Ritz-Carlton on the great day. A great percentage of these men are at McGill, and they are asked to communicate with E. J. Whitson, Apt. 23, 794 St. Urbain St.

DR. GRAY SPOKE TO PHYSICISTS

Lecture on "Scattering of X-Rays and Gama Rays"

Dr. J. A. Gray addressed a meeting of the Physical Society on "The Scattering of X and Gama Rays" at 5 p.m. yesterday. He showed how the Claffical Theory of Electro-magnetic waves explains the shape of the Intensity Distribution Curve of the scattered radiation and the Tlane Polarization of the rays scattered through 90 degrees, and also the intensity of the rays: that does not account for the lengthening of the wave of the scattered ray.

The Quantum Theory of the A. H. Compton was explained and shown to be inadequate to account for all the phenomena. This led to the attempt to treat a ray of light like a corpuscle having definite quantum of energy and consequent momentum.

When the ray starts a fast-moving electron there is a resultant Doppler effect which partly explains the observed change in wave length. Much difficulty arises from the fact that different effects are observed from X and from Gama rays for in the above theory similar effects would be expected.

The results of Dr. Ross of California and Dr. Duane of Harvard were given, showing that much remains to be done before a satisfactory explanation can be given of reflection from a crystal surface without change of wave-length, and the scattering which Dr. Gray has shown to result in the production of rays of increased wavelength.

This interesting address was much appreciated by the audience and in consequence a resolution was moved by Dr. Eve and seconded by Dr. Shaw expressing congratulations to Dr. Gray on his appointment to the Research Chair of Physics at Queen's University, and regret his withdrawal from the staff of the Macdonald Physics Building.

OBSERVATORY WAS INVADED BY REPORTER

Secrets of Recording Station Explored

BROADCASTS TIME

Time Ascertained by the Movement of the Stars

During the abundant showers of rain and sleet yesterday afternoon an inquisitive reporter of the "Daily" swooped down or rather up on the "Weather Man" in the Observatory to find out what it was all about. To the uninitiated, and there are many of these, the McGill Observatory is situated just west of Molson's Hall, and from here came the reports of "Fair and warmer" or "More Snow" that blaze forth from Montreal's newspapers.

Having crashed the gate the reporter, with the characterestic inquisitiveness of his calling, began to explore the place. He discovered that the "Weather Man" was none other than Professor Kelly, well known to Science Summer School Students, who went to much pains and trouble to introduce the explorer to all the mysteries in the Observatory.

A fact that is little known to McGill students is that the Observatory is a time-recording station. The time is obtained by observation of the movement of the stars, instead of time-keeping by the sun, because more accurate results are obtained by the former method. A transit records the passage of the stars over the McGill meridian on an instrument called the chornograph. The McGill meridian, by the way was originally fixed by telegraphic communication with Greenwich, England.

The chronograph is used as a means of checking up on the master clock and by these two an electric clock is regulated. The master clock is of delicate mechanism and is enclosed in a portial vacuum. It is one of the best of its kind in America. The electric clock has an automatic attachment which sends out the correct time to all parts of the city. It is also the mysterious power that rings the gongs in all the buildings around college. Seven or eight devices which are called tickers are used to relay the time to different places in the city. At eleven o'clock in the morning one of these tickers relays the time directly to all stations on the Canadian National Railways. Another sends out the time to the Toronto Observatory, and in this way a check is kept on each other

Besides time recording a careful scrutiny is kept on the changes in the weather. If it were not for the numerous devices at their command, those in charge would be kept pretty busy, especially with weather like the present. Those who have Alpine blood in their viens and who have climbed to the highest elevation of Mount Royal will have noticed a mysterious tower erected up there. On this tower is a

WILL LECTURE ON INDIAN AFFAIRS

Prof. Masih, Noted Indian Theologist to Speak

A series of lectures on India's life, political and religious questions, by Professor Yohan Masih, talented Indian theologist, will be given in the Presbyterian College starting Monday, Jan. 21st.

Professor Masih, being native born, has seen all phases of Indian life, and has studied problems both Theological and Political concerning the Indian peoples. He is now acting Principal at the Malwa Theological Seminary at Indore, Central India.

The course of lectures which Professor Masih is giving, is open to all students and their friends, and any who wish to hear this distinguished scholar.

These lectures, to be held at five o'clock in the Presbyterian College, 67 McTavish Street, Monday, the 21st inst. to Friday, the 25th inclusive, will be as follows:—

Monday—"India and Her Peoples."
Tuesday—"The Soul of India."
Wednesday—"The Women of India."
Thursday—"Dawn in India," discussing the beginnings and progress of Christianity.
Friday—"National Awakening in India," discussing the political situation.

MONTREAL, SATURDAY, JANUARY 12, 1924

VARSITY VS. McGILL

The McGill senior hockey sextette is at home to-night to the visitors from Toronto Varsity and the call has gone forth for whole-hearted support from the undergraduates of this university in order that the Red and White may give a fitting welcome to the guests of the evening. Of course we understand perfectly—as a matter of fact too perfectly—that the little matter of writing an examination or two must be dealt with next week but personally we think that a few hours can be spared to support our representatives on the ice; to give them the best chance possible to open the intercollegiate schedule with a victory. And if McGill's skaters can do this the chances of bringing back the championship silverware should be very favourable indeed.

But whatever the results, let your verdit be based upon sound reason and careful judment, and in doing this there are several things to remember. The first is that the McGill squad has been severely handicapped by lack of ice and consequent lack of practice. The Varsity aggregation, however, has been holding workouts since the early part of November and the players must be now in something approaching mid-season form. Both teams have had trips to the States and the Blue and White certainly had the better success. On paper it must be admitted that the Torontonians have an excellent chance for a win and probably no one realizes this more than they do, for they have challenged for the Allen Cup through the Intercollegiate series. But paper dope is easily upset and as Coach Shaughnessy has, according to his own statement, one of the most determined squads of recent years, there is every reason to believe that to-night may once again see McGill start down the path which leads to victory.

The McGill team needs your support, for this evening will witness a crucial test. Come to the Arena. Do not be afraid to inform the audience of your presence but expand your lungs and once again let the walls echo and re-echo with the good battle cries, which have helped many a McGill team bring honour and championships to this, our Alma Mater.

THE BASKETBALL GAME

After seeing the Intrecollegiate Basketball Championship rest at McGill for the past two years, the Varsity players will once again attempt to wrest honours from the Red and White, when they meet the local quintette this afternoon at the M.A.A.A. This is a game that should be replete with thrills and it is one which will certainly be worth watching. The Toronto team is an unknown quantity for it has undergone almost a complete change since last March. But the Queen City can always be relied upon to produce players of stellar calibre. The McGill squad has suffered a heavy blow in the loss of Captain Amaron but the remaining members will give their best and from all indications should open the schedule with a victory. The team will be led by Mendelsohn, the fast forward who has been in Senior company for the past three years, and he and his team-mates will force the visitors to give all they have. But what would a game be without rooters? You—and that means everybody—are expected to be at the Peel St. gymnasium this afternoon, if this is humanly possible and when you do arrive "let her go" and the basketeers will do the rest.

CONDENSED COMMENT

The Daily takes this opportunity of welcoming the Toronto athletes, who are in this city for the basketball and hockey games. The relations between Varsity and McGill have always been of the best nature for when we meet the teams of the Blue and White we know that we are playing against sportsmen and gentlemen and under these condtiions only good feelings can exist. May Varsity and McGill be forever friendly rivals and may petty squabblings and strife never disrupt the harmony, which exists at present.

Worried faces, serious talk, and extra light bills constitute a college barometer which foretells the arrival of examinations next week. Those who have studied with precision and regularity need not worry; those who have not done so are worrying; but to all, who are to be tried by the mid-term tests, we extend our wishes for success. Also, as some of the Daily staff are due to appear in the rooms devoted to the disclosure of wisdom, we add, as an afterthought, that this publication will retire for a week, reappearing on Monday morning, January the twenty-first.

"Do not come, our ice has disappeared." This was the message from Queen's to the U. of M. hockey team. Which reminds us that in spite of all, artificiality is at times exceedingly useful, Doctor's hours are from 12.30 to 1.30 daily except Saturday. Physical examinations may be had at this period.

ARTS '27

Owing to some misunderstanding a practice hour has not yet been scheduled; however, all those interested in the game are requested to watch the Notices for it.

Also three hours have been booked for all those members of the class who are interested in aquatic activities. These are; 5.30 to 7.00 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays at the Knights of Columbus Building on Mountain St., and on Fridays at 5 o'clock at the Rubenstein Baths.

The interfaculty Aquatic Meet falls on February so all the Mermen must get out to practice.

GYMNASIUM CLASSES

Gymnasium classes will be discontinued from Friday, Jan.11 and will be resumed on Monday, Jan. 21, 1924.

GRADUATES' DANCE

The first of the High School Graduates' Dances will be held on Friday, the 18th of January. The following ladies have consented to act as patronesses: Mrs. Gammell, Miss Hendrie, Mrs. Irwin and Mrs. McGarry.

BASKETBALL

All games and practices in Basketball in Molson's Hall cancelled for Saturday, and next week.

HOCKEY PRACTICES.

Will the following intermediate candidates report at Mt. Royal Arena at 6 p.m., Monday— Routledge, McCall, Cameron, Pelton, McGregor, Thompson, Kelly, Lynch, Pinkey, Bartlett, Beardsley and Galley. All other candidates report for practice on Thursday at 6 p.m.

ANNUAL PHOTOGRAPHS.

Anyone wishing to inquire about photographs for the Annual of class groups societies, etc., please phone Bev Boulton, Plateau 0354.

ANNUAL WRITE-UPS.

All write-ups of clubs, teams and events which have not yet been handed in to the Annual Board by those responsible must be handed in within the next ten days.

COLUMBIAN CLUB.

The monthly meeting of Columbians at McGill, will be held on Sunday at 3 p.m., in the Club Rooms, 78 Durocher St.

There are several important items of business to come up. A goodly attendance is requested.

JUNIOR HOCKEY.

Will the following Junior players report at Loyola at 2 p.m. Abbott, Johnston, Mickles, M. Cameron, Eveleigh, Roncaralli, Boos, Fry, S. A. McDonald and Reid.

SKI CLUB.

There will be a meeting of the Executive in the Union at 5 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 21st. Notice has been received from the Montreal Ski Club that admission will be refused, to those wishing to use the jump unless they show membership badge for 1924.

ARTS '27.

There will be a meeting at the close of the history lecture to-day to discuss plans for class hockey. All those interested are requested to attend.

Until further notice the class hockey hour is 2—3 on Thursdays, on the Campus Rink.

JUNIOR BASKETBALL.

Game to-night at Bancroft School, St. Urbain St., at 8 p.m. Players to be at school at 7.30.

WRESTLERS.

There will be a practice to-day at 3 p.m. at Strathcona Hall. Bring your own towels.

R. V. C. '27.

A class meeting of R.V.C. '27 will be held in Room 10 at twelve o'clock today.

SCI. '27 HOCKEY.

The following men are asked to report for hockey practice from 2 to 3.00 this afternoon: Brain, Walker, L. M. Moore, Slattery, A. W. Smith, C. L. Coleman MacLaren, Durley, Reid, Stewart. Any others who are interested will be welcome.

LECTURES AT P. C.

Prof. Yohan Masih of the Malwa Theological Seminary, Indore, India, will give a series of lectures in the Presbyterian College, 67 McTavish St., as follows:—

Monday, Jan. 21—"India and Her Peoples."

Tuesday, Jan. 22—"The Soul of India."

Wednesday, Jan. 23—"The Women of India."

Thursday, Jan. 24—"Dawn in India" (Beginnings and Progress of Christianity.)

Friday, Jan. 25—"National Awakening in India" (The Political Situation).

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS.

It is almost a habit, it seems to draw up a new set of resolutions just before the old year dies. Is it not somewhat similar to a will? Some people assert however, that resolutions should not be an annual affair but they should be made and lived up to before a new set is chosen. But, as the old sage says, custom is custom.

If you have already prepared your New Year's resolutions or are perhaps looking for some hints or advice, we would suggest that the first one on the list be a motto. The one Abraham Lincoln used is probably the very best a student could possibly adopt, namely, "I will work and study and perhaps some day my time will come."

Another valuable suggestion might be a determination to make the remaining years of college life at least a little more valuable than those that have passed.

Don'ts are also important and worth remembering, particularly when they concern some of our traits of character that have not yet been molded into permanent form. Dont resort to bad manners, bad habits, unwise decisions, laziness or even try to make any more enemies.

Resolve to make 1924 your banner year in every possible way. Your future depends upon the road you now plan to follow. Beware of the crossties and the curves! A good start will make the going easy. Start right.

THOUGHTS OF EXAMS TOO MUCH FOR STUDE

The following wild essay is the unfettered ravings of an unsettled mind, whose insanity was brought on by the thought of the approaching examinations. Having the necessary nerve of writing down everything that comes in his head and the surprising faculty of getting it into print, the result is the following tragedy:—

"The weather man threw a bombshell into the undertaking business of Montreal lately, and by all appearances if the weather keeps up there will be a run on the cemetery. Navigation is open on practically all streets in the city, and St. Catherine Street has more dangerous currents than the Niagara Gorge.

Outdoor sports are at a standstill, many of them are contemplating suicide.

The McGill Rowing Club had a fine work-out on the campus rink yesterday afternoon, and this afternoon the Red and White mermen will stage a diving contest. The Arts building is still visible and divers were unable to reach bottom in the hollow in front of the building. In certain sections of the town bottles are floating in the cellars, but happily all the bottles are well corked. Meanwhile the inhabitants are fleeing to the hills with all the bottles that can be salvaged.'

THE SPIRIT OF THE NIGHT

J. G. McKay
(late of Strathcona Hall)

The days are sometimes long;
And oftimes wearily
I watch the sun sink in the west,
Glad that the day is done.
Then through the purple haze there comes,
As silent as the fading light,
Bearing sweet rest
And lulling anxious thoughts to sleep,
The Spirit of the Night.

The days are sometimes dark
And storm-clouds linger near,
As if to hide the blue beyond
Or cause us to forget
That far above the sun still shines.
Then even comes, the stars are bright,
And clouds are gone—
By some strange sense obedient to
The Spirit of the Night.

The days are sometimes lone:
Thoughts stray to absent ones
Across the miles that lie between
With longing unrepaid.
But when the veil is drawn, then space
Is naught, for some keen inward sight,
Some blissful dream
Finds loved ones near, companions to
The Spirit of the Night.

The days are sometimes sad.
I ask no questions why
They thus should be; but this I know:
That when the darkness comes,
O'er all a mystic presence dwells,
And God is near; in hurried flight
The sadness goes:
And then my soul drifts out to meet
The Spirit of the Night.

BULGARIA'S EDUCATIONAL EXPERIMENT

The general truth that the future of of nation depends on her young generation has especial meaning for such a country as Bulgaria. Politically independent since 1878, this nation submitted from outside to different influences on her mental and spiritual life, and therefore the present moment is very critical and decisive for the future of Bulgaria. Everything is in the stage of formation. The whole life is flexible enough to be moulded by ideals and principals.

Out of five million inhabitants, 750,000 are boys and girls attending different schools. 4000 of these are students of 2 universities and four pedagogical institutions. About 34,000 are in the middle schools of different kinds and all the others are attending primary schools.

The Government University with 2300 students is only 40 years old, and has not the steady traditions which generally form the definite spiritual and intellectual type of student, in the old universities of Europe. The Free University of Sophia is a private enterprise and exists only since 3 years. One cannot speak yet about its influence upon the social and spiritual ideals of the nation.

The youth of Bulgaria is very ardent in its search of new ideals and new methods for developing character and developing itself for social work. The Communist ideals were predominant among the greater part of the students, during the last two or three years. Many earnest students believed that the communists would bring humanity to a new epoch, in which the brotherhood of people and justice will be realized in everyday life. At present the influence of these ideals is very much smaller, chiefly because of the hard experience of Russia.

In the Government University there are eight student academic societies. During the last year the most active was the Student Christian Association. Its periodical "New Era" after one year's publication has already 1800 subscribers and is considered to be one of the best periodicals on social, ethical, and religious problems of the present young generation.

U. OF T. CLASH WITH McGILL AT THE ARENA

Blue and White Team at Full Strength

8.15 SHARP

"Dopesters" Are Uncertain About the Outcome of Intercollegiate Fixture

To-night at the Mount Royal Arena, the McGill Senior sextette will cross swords with Varsity in the first Intercollegiate Hockey fixture staged here this year.

Both teams are in good shape and a closely fought contest is looked forward to.

There will be some unfamiliar faces to Montreal hockey fans when the "T" team steps on the ice to-night as they have suffered the loss of several of last year's players, particularly that of "Bill" Carson who has been a tower of strength at centre for several seasons. However the vacancies have been filled by capable players and Varsity is invading Montreal with the firm intention of taking the first game in her struggle to withhold the title for another year.

The Blue and White players have had the advantage of artificial ice and have been practising since the latter part of November.

The only defeat they have suffered this season was at the hands of Kitchener, one of the strong contenders in the O. H. A.

Hudson is holding down the centre position with Westman and Wright supporting him on the wings. McLeod and Harris are a strong pair on the defence while either Sullivan or "Gladdie" Thompson will guard the Varsity citadel. In Greey, Newlove and Taylor, they have a flashy trio of substitutes and these round off a team which is strong in every department and playing brilliant hockey.

Although handicapped by lack of practice due to poor weather conditions, the McGill Senior squad has rapidly rounded into shape and tonight should put up a brand of hockey that will keep the Varsity puck chasers hard pressed for the sixty minutes of play.

The squad has won its two starts in the City League race against strong teams and is out to give the Blue and White players a battle royal.

"Slim" Morris the redoubtable goal tender will take his place in the McGill nets. He has been turning in a good game and is expected to cause the "T" sharpshooters a lot of worry.

With Dempsey and McMahon playing in defence and Morris in goal, the team presents a defensive trio which ranks with any in the Intercollegiate League.

McGerrigle holding down centre is showing surprising speed and is playing brilliant hockey.

On right wing is "Matty" Dineen, captain of the victorious McGill team in 1922 when the won the Quebec Championship.

McNaughton on left wing completes the sextette; he has been playing consistent hockey in the senior games so far.

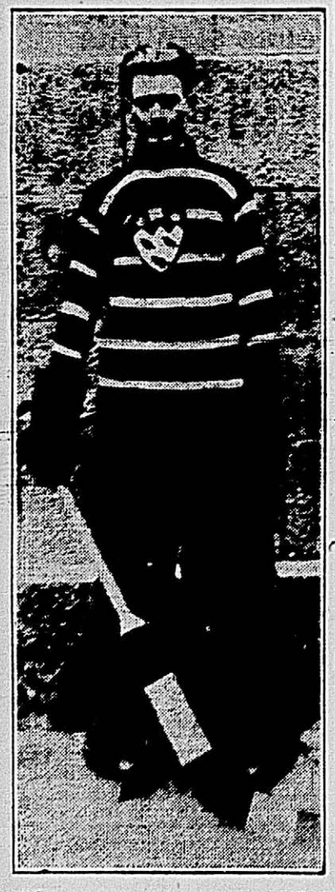

Bell, Glennie and O'Donnell make up a trio of fast substitutes who can be depended on to go in at any time and fill the breach.

Glennie and O'Donnell are both newcomers but have shewn up well in the practises and will have a chance to-night to show their wares.

Last year was the first time in many seasons that the Red and White puck chasers managed to take a full out of Varsity and to-night they are going in to endeavour to duplicate the victory.

Both teams are at full strength and should provide a lot of thrills during the sixty minutes of play. The game commences at 8.15 and everyone is expected out to cheer the team on.

JUNIOR TEAM OUT TO WIN SECOND GAME

Red and White Hockeyists Meet Victorias at 2.30 To-day

GREAT ENTHUSIASM

Marked Improvement Shown Since First Game of Season

A good game of hockey should be witnessed this afternoon when the McGill Juniors meet the Victorias on the Loyola rink at 2:30 o'clock.

The Junior men have been working hard in their practices lately and are gradually getting into form. The players are showing great enthusiasm, as is seen by the fact that there were forty candidates out for the Junior and Intermediate practice last Thursday night. This is a remarkably good showing, and the Junior team should be able to make a strong bid for first place in the League.

The team has played one game so far, in which they defeated the St. Gabriel sextette by a score of 4—1. In that contest the Juniors showed their lack of practice and team play, but has improved much since. Against the St. Gabriels, who are a good, fast team, McGill showed that they have the necessary pep of a good hockey team, and played well both on the defense and offense.

However, they seemed to lack the team play that comes with practice. In the last work-out they were showing up much better in their combination, and will prove a formidable aggregation to overcome.

On the other hand, the Victorias have a strong, fast team this year, and can be depended on to put up a good stiff fight. The game should prove interesting.

Of the players for the Red and White, the team will be picked from the following:

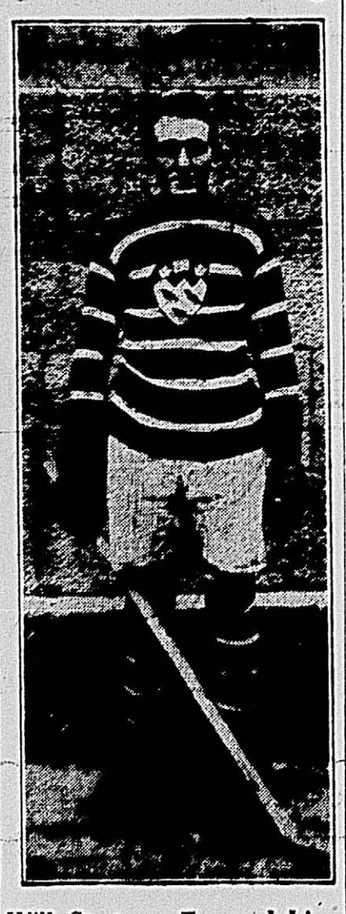

Goal—Johnston and Reid.

Defence—Roncarelli and Boos.

Forwards—Abbot, Mickles, Cameron, Eveleigh, Fry and MacDonald.

The game against the University of Montreal, which was scheduled for Monday night, has been cancelled, and will be played at a later date. The next Junior hockey practice will be held in the Mount Royal Arena on Thursday night, from six to seven.

McNAUGHTON

Will Start on Forward Line To-night

In the Dark

There were three at the little table in the cafe, a girl and two men. Suddenly the lights went out and the girl drew back quickly.

An instant later there was the smack of a compound kiss. As the lights went up, each man was seen smiling compacently.

"I thought I heard a kiss," said the girl, "but nobody kissed me."

Then the men glared at each other and flushed.

SENIORS PLAY VARSITY MEN AT M.A.A.A.

First Intercollegiate Basketball Fixture

PEEL ST. GYM.

Toronto Team Arrived in City Yesterday Afternoon

The Toronto Varsity basketball team arrived in the city yesterday afternoon for their game with McGill Seniors, which takes place this afternoon on the Gymnasium of the Montreal A. A. A., Peel Street.

This is the opening game of the intercollegiate series, and should draw a large crowd of spectators, for Varsity can be relied upon to give a good exhibition, and have been in past years a big contender for the title.

The game this afternoon will see the Red and White team in action for the first time this season with something at stake, and this, coupled with the fact that Varsity have a tendency toward winning their first game each season, should furnish an encounter which will long be remembered.

The holiday tour to the States served to put the McGill team in smooth working condition, an advantage which could not have otherwise been secured since they did not enter the City League this year.

The McGill team is fortunate in having their last year's forward line left intact. Little, Manson and Mendelsohn comprising the attacking line which defeated Varsity in Ottawa for the intercollegiate championship last year. The defence, however, has lost the services of Crain and Amaron, the former having graduated, while Amaron is out of the game for a few weeks with an injured leg. Hilton, Quackenbush and Blumenstein will however, prove a worthy trio to uphold the honours which the good defensive work of Crain and Amaron has gained for McGill.

Varsity have a team composed of practically all new material and it is therefore difficult to speculate on the outcome of this afternoon's encounter. Laidman, Hutchison, Potter and Smith will work on the forward line, while Caple, Bell and Burgess will alternate on the defense. The Toronto team has played exhibition games in the States during the Christmas holidays. They met Rochester, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, and although not very successful in the outcome of these games, they were nevertheless satisfied with the working of their team. Laidman and Potter played exceptionally good basketball against Rochester, in which game the American players just nosed out the Blue and White team. Burgess, a forward on last years team, has dropped back on the defense, and has proved a success in that position. Hutchison, Smith and Bell are all players of last year's second team, and can be relied on to put up a good game in senior company for Varsity.

Captain Caple was interviewed and announced that his men were in good condition and were anxious to get into the game. He expressed his confidence in his team and hopes to take the first game of the season.

The teams will be picked from the following players:

McGill.	Varsity.
Centre.
Manson	Hutchison
Forwards.
Little	Laidman
Mendelsohn	Potter
Brown	Smith
James
Guards.
Hilton	Caple
Quackenbush	Burgess
Blumenstein	Bell

THE OPTIMIST

Jenkins was an optimist and incidentally he was bald. He was not a too credulous optimist who invested his money in every thinly tinseled gold brick which was presented to him, but he believed in things and in people; he had enthusiasm; he was cheerful under defeat.

If the day was gloomy Jenkins was hopeful that the sun would shine tomorrow; if prices were low or the crops not so abundant as might be be desired, he could always detect indications of improvement in the immediate future. Things are seldom so bad as as they seem, he argued.

When some local enterprise, or undertaking or project seemed hopelessly involved or on its last legs, it was always Jenkins who was called in, and he could so inspire enthusiasm and confidence that more often than otherwise the venture succeeded in pulling out of its hole. He made the country club go when it seemed dying of financial anaemia; he put new life into the Baptist church when religious drouth seemed about to devastate it; and when local business was stagnating and civic enthusiasm was at its lowest ebb he organized a Kiwanis club that immediately put the old town on the map.

As I said at the outset, Jenkins was bald, and this condition was to him a matter of considerable concern. Here, as usual, however, his optimism came to the front. He believed that ultimately he would find a remedy for the condition of his shiny poll, and he kept at it persistently and cheerfully.

He tried a number of nostrums, and his friends knowing his hirsute ambitions recommended others to him. One of these guaranteed success. "Do not drop any of this liquid," the directions read, "where you do not wish hair to grow." This remedy seemed too dangerous to handle, so Jenkins evaded it, but he kept on with others, fully confident that he would attain success.

Hair is a pretty difficult substance to develop on a billiard ball but maybe it can be done. The last time I saw Jenkins he had a very respectable showing of curly locks. Maybe it was faith, maybe it was persistance, possibly it was the regular and vigorous massage which he gave the top of his head, and it is possible that it was pure optimism that brought about the result. At any rate Jenkins succeeded.

INTERMEDIATES AT LOYOLA RINK

McGill to Play Westmount in Hockey Tuesday

The McGill Intermediate hockey team will play its second game of the season against the Westmount sextette at the Loyola rink, next Tuesday evening, at 8 p.m. The McGill men won the first game of the season from Victoria, last Tuesday. This victory gives the Red and White a good chance to win the intermediate title this season.

The McGill team is strong and well organized. Three experienced men are prepared to safeguard the goal. Routledge is a new man here and last year was sub. for the seniors. He comes from the University of Alberta team. Cameron also is a new man, and is a brother of Joe Cameron, goalie of the Granites. McCall is an old McGill man, and is well known in inter-faculty hockey. Pelton, McGregor and Kelly are last years team men, and will keep a solid defence line.

Lynch, Pinkey Bartlett, Thompson, front line men, were on last year's team, and may be depended upon to keep the puck well down toward the opponent's goal.

All games will be played on the Loyola rink and due to university examinations, the McGill team will play the first game every Tuesday night at 8 p.m. throughout the month of January.

The following is the schedule for the Intermediate Hockey League. Intermediate players please cut this out for reference.

M.S.P.E. HOCKEY TEAM HAS GOOD PROSPECTS

The M.S.P.E. hockey enthusiasts had a very successful practice last Tuesday and the prospects for a good team are very bright, despite the fact that nearly all of last year's team graduated.

Mr. Shaughnessy gave the girls practice in shooting, also carrying and passing the puck. Miss Helen Roberts, who was on last year's team, was up to her oldtime form. Miss Alice Roy, who was on the R. V. C. intercollegiate team last year, and Miss Joyce Plumptree from Varsity will be quite an asset to the team.

Two freshmen so green
Tried bluffing the Dean.
If their bluff had been stronger
My tale had been longer.

COMMITTEE DECIDES TO ABOLISH EXAMS

Numerous Authorities Give Varied Opinions on Subject

Mid-year exams are at hand, this being the last issue of the "Daily" before those "calamities" it is perhaps advisable to consult different authorities, as to whether mid-term exams are necessary at all.

When dealing with such a promiscuous subject the very best opinion must be had with this in mind the committee appointed to look into this matter, cornered "Harry" the head janitor of the Engineering Building. At first he refused to give any opinion whatsoever on the grounds that it was out of his jurisdiction; but on being pressed he stated that he was unfavorable, owing to the great amount of printed matter and foolish questions entailed. Adding that one point in their favor was the concentration of Daily's to one room. The next authority consulted was "Bill" the elevator boy, who welcomed the committee with open arms, giving his advice freely. From the mass of broken English it was gathered that he was very much in their favor. He pointed out that during exams his services were required less often, thus leaving him more time to pursue his important research in the "Saturday Evening Post."

On leaving the Engineering Building a boat was hired and rowed over to the Arts Building, with the intention of interviewing Mr. Wm. Gentleman, only to find that he had suddenly "come into money", as the result of the solving of a recent mystery and was touring Europe. Feeling rather down cast at having missed an opportunity of interviewing such a renowned and influential personage the reporters wondered aimlessly through the musty halls, only to be confronted by a figure saying "get your cards gentlemen". Coming back to earth the figure was recognizable as "Dick" the guardian of towels and ginger pop of Molson Hall. His opinion was at once asked. He did not know what exams were but presumed that they were the cause in the great drop in the sale of ginger ale at certain times of the year. And therefore they should be abolished.

Numerous other authorities were consulted, such as the stoker in the heating plant, who informed the reporter that when those operations were taking place the buildings were much easier to heat, owing to the great amount of energy expended in thought and the resultant rise in temperature. The keeper of the frogs in the Biological Building was "pumped". He said that during those periods the frogs were much the same as usual. And declined to give an opinion for fear of declined to give an opinion for fear of losing professional standing.

The following statistics are the result of this exhaustive investigation: of representative men. For mid term exams 45.993 percent against 54.009 percent which leaves us precisely as we started.

device for measuring the velocity of the wind, which is connected by a cable to a wind gauge down in the Observatory. Thus, one may read the velocity of the wind on the top of the mountain by consulting the gauge in the Observatory. The Observatory is also fitted with a rain gauge which records the number of inches of rainfall and the intensity.

West of Molson's Hall are two small affairs which most students believe to be either bird houses or bee-hives. In reality they contain barometers and thermagraphs which are used to record the atmospheric pressure and changes in temperature. Near these is a thermometer which measures the intensity of heat in th sun rays.

All in all the adventure was so exciting and interesting that the enthusiastic reporter forgot to ask about the weather forecast. However he predicts that we will get a very heavy snow storm, but declines to reveal just when it will arrive.

MORE ADVICE FOR COMING EXAMINATIONS

Experienced Expert Gives Timely Tips

Eight Sound Rules on How to Pass the Exams

The great semi-annual sporting event of students versus professors will take place next week, and great sheets of windy propaganda as to the method of going through unscathed, has been circulated. The writer of this epistle has tried and failed in approximately six of these events and gives below some timely tips on how to make a first class showing.

1. "If you are well acquainted in the city and as a result have not studied all year, don't, under any consideration, begin now. That would be worse than the fellow who put a yale lock on the stable door aftes the fiery but faithful Spark Plug had been pilfered. Furthermore don't put on an undertaker's frown and begin warring about it. There's no use crying over spilled beer, the barmaid can bring you another.

2. When you enter the torture chamber—I mean the examination room—make a wise crack to the professor. He'll appreciate it.

3. Take no books into the exam room that are larger than pint size, because the professor is liable to see it and take it from you.

4. Talk over the paper with the fellow beside you, because two heads are better than one, even if both are empty.

5. Don't bother about the rules on the front page. Write on both sides of the paper, inside and outside. You don't even need to sign your name because if you write a rotten paper, then they can't fail you.

6. Always write a personal letter to the professor who set the paper telling him what you think of both him and his paper. A wise crack can also be used to good advantage here.

7. Be sure to supply yourself with a good big chew of tobacco before entering exam-room. You can at least make your jaws work if your brain won't. Spitoons will be placed in every aisle. The foregoing advice, however, does not apply to women-students.

8. In the last extremity start a fight in the room, and if it is well done, it may necessitate calling off all the examinations.

The above rules have been compiled after unbelievable brain work upon the part of the writer, and are offered to the student body absolutely free of charge. The other twelve rules may be had by sending a stamped, self addressed letter and five dollars ($5.00) to the writer, care of the Lion Tamer's Club.

R.V.C. GYM. DEM. TO BE HELD IN MARCH

Committee Elected at Meeting of Undergraduate Society

At a short meeting of the R. V. C. Undergraduate Society yesterday the report of the The Dansant Committee was given by the Convenor of the Committee. From a financial as well as a social stand point this affair was a great succes sand the proceeds which are considerable, will be divided between the S. C. A. and the Delta Sigma Society of R. V. C.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Committee for their successful work.

The meeting expressed its approval of the proposed plan to hold a Gym. Demonstration this term, and it was announced that March 28 and 29 had been fixed as dates for this event. This seems rather late in the term but it allows time to make the demonstration a greater success than it otherwise might be.

There will be two committees to look after the necessary arrangements for the Demonstration. Miss Rhoda Grant was elected convenor of the Tickets and Business Committee, the representatives from the different years being the Misses M. Dyke, M. McWatters, F. Stocking, and G. Cameron. The Gymnastic Committee will be elected from the various gym. classes, after which special work for the demonstration will be commenced.

ROOTER'S BAND IS READY FOR ACTION

Practice in Union in Preparation for To-night's Game

Loud and clear sounds, starting soon after five p.m. yesterday in the Union, showed that the Rooters' Band on the top floor was holding an encouraging practice. From all standpoints the practice was a success. Although rude "tuning-up" sounds put many readers below on the point of going, when the artists started "Swingin' down the Lane," a sensation of distinct pleasure swept through the building.

All the necessary instruments were represented, and most of the former performers turned up. Volunteers for the cornet are wanted, however.

The band practiced the McGill March Songs, and other College "Warcries," also many of the popular songs, notably "Swingin' down the Lane," and "Barney Google." The band will perform this evening at the McGill-Varsity Senior Hockey game in the Mount Royal Arena. Members have received passes and will meet at 7.30 p.m.

A good crowd of rooters under the leadership of Cheer Leader Jeff Harding is anticipated.

FREAK CLUBS

A few days ago an article appeared in the "Daily" regarding a Blue Shirt Club which had been formed at Harvard University. The writer of this outburst of illiterate nonsense overheard someone remark what a shame it was that McGill had no such elevating fraternities and societies. McGill has been especially favored in this regard in the past, and several like progressive clubs are now in existence in this university.

At the beginning of this session, a club of this kind was organized by the Sophomores in Dentistry and was known as the "Brown Derby" Club. It was very popular among the Dentistry freshmen who had 100 per cent membership. The club had a very successful career—from the point of view of the Sophs,—and came to a termination at a big dinner at the Venetian Gardens.

A similar club was organized in the early Fall some years ago by the Science Sophs, and was just as enthusiastically joined by the freshman class. This club was known as the "Green-tie and Wing-collar Club," and had a short but stormy career. The club was finally broken up, and a bon-fire and war dance on the campus celebrated the event.

"The Red and White Skull Cap Club" had a large following last year among the freshman class. The rules of this society were very strict. The rules called that all members must wear the insignia of the Club at all times under the pain of fearful tortures and were forbidden to use the walks around the college. However, the fad wore off, and the club was broken up, though not until after a stormy existence.

Speaking of the Blue Shirt Club, one well-known undergrad made an effort to start one in McGill but in the interests of humanity he was speedily drawn into one of the puddles in the rink in the Hollow. He died for a noble, though hopeless cause.

Several other undergrads have announced their intention of organizing other similar clubs in the interests of higher education. One of these, the "Red and White Suspender Club," is to be organized that McGill students may recognize each other in the washrooms of Pullman cars. The day is not far off when students will be pulling the old gag, "Why do McGill men wear red and white suspenders?" Personally if this weather stays mild the writer of this outrage is going to join the "High Rubber Boot Club" until dry-land is sighted.

DO UNDERGRADUATES SPEAK GOOD ENGLISH?

An instructor in a commercial course has informed his students that a portion of the quarter's work would have to do with the study of the correct usage of the English language, in which knowledge the average student is rather sadly deficient.

It is really quite depressing to hear many undergraduates play havoc with all rules of good English in their daily conversation. Their writing, though more carefully done, is not free from glaring faults of grammar and spelling. And yet, these undergraduates, many of them, are juniors and seniors, soon to be graduated from this university and considered as "educated" persons.

Among the best of this University's rules is that which requires all freshmen to take a year in grammar and composition. The one year, however, seemingly is not enough, or many students are able to "get by" with a passing grade without assimilating much of the material offered them.

After all the training in composition and rhetoric given in grammar and high schools, and the additional year here at Ohio State, the average junior or senior should be well able to handle the mother tongue rather effectively. Surely the upperclassman should know its correct use.

It may be that every college student should be required to review his knowledge of grammar in his junior or senior year. Again, it might be well to insist on a somewhat higher standard in high school and in the freshman year at college.

In concluding this editorial on student use of English, we rather hope we are making no grammatical errors in our editorial columns today. If we are, however, we offer this to soften the harshness of our critics—If an English course of the type mentioned above were offered, we'd jump at the opportunity to take it.

MEN OF ARTS PREPARE FOR GREAT DINNER

Dean Laing to Come From Chicago for Occasion

IN BALLROOM

Prominent Members of the Professoriate Have Been Asked to Speak

Representatives from the colleges in the middle section of Canada, undergraduate, graduates, and prominent members of the Arts Faculty of McGill, will assemble for the annual Arts Dinner to be held in the ballroom of the Union on February eleventh.

One of the outstanding features of the event will be the presence of Dr. Laing, former Dean of the Arts Faculty here, and at present Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Literature at Chicago University. During his brief sojourn at McGill Dr. Laing won an enviable reputation as a speaker of rare merit. His services were in particular demand, both inside and outside the University walls, as an after-dinner speechmaker, and at such functions his never failing wit, added much to their success. Dean Laing's coming visit to McGill, to act in a familiar role, is being looked forward to with much interest by the Arts men.

Principal Currie has consented to take his place at the festive table. Professor MacKay, recently appointed Dean of Arts, will be another among the list of notables present. Some words of interest may be expected from these eminent personages.

Professor Waugh and Dr. Eve, of the Departments of History and Physics respectively, have been asked to attend. These two members of the professoriate will contribute something worth while in the oratorical line.

If plans work out there will be a member of each of four other Canadian Universities at the dinner. Invitations have been sent to Toronto, Queen's, Western, and Montreal Universities to send Arts representatives. Within a few days answers to the invitations are expected from these Universities.

L. Sessenwein of Arts '24 is in charge of the arrangements for distribution of tickets, and a canvass of all classes will be made in order to assure a large attendance.

In speaking of the dinner a member of the committee in charge said: "Every effort is being made to pay attention to every detail that will contribute towards making the Arts Dinner the best that has staged in years. Every Arts man, graduate, and member of the Faculty, is invited and urged to be present."

The Dinner Committee is as follows: Chairman, C. T. Tenkle, R. V. Fortune, H. P. Teakle, M. Gordon, L. Sessenwein, D. Everett, G. Gorrie, Morton.

REPS. TO JOURNEY TO QUEENS AND TORONTO

McGill will be represented at the Annual dinners of the Arts Faculties of both Queen's and Toronto Universities. The dinner at Queen's will be held on Jan. 31, and will be preceded by a dance on Jan. 30. R. V. Fortune of Arts '25 will represent McGill at both these functions. The representative at the Varsity dinner will be L. C. Tombs, Arts '24.

LIBRARY MUSEUM HAS A WOOD-CUT EXHIBIT

A large collection of old wood-cuts will be on exhibition in the museum of the Redpath Library, starting on Monday, January 14. This exhibition is open to the public. Further details will be published later.

time to time as to whether members of University Faculties are eligible to participate in travel facilities provided by the Overseas Education League. In reply it is desired to say that the League will be glad at all times to extend the services of its organization to such members. Private hospitality will reduce of course, the cost of the tour, and such reduction will be shared in by all members of the party, not merely by those members actually selected for this form of accommodation.

Forms for registration will be available early in January and can be obtained at the office of the Honorary Organiser, Overseas Education League, 21 Kennedy Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba, or—Wilfred Bovey Esq., the Office of the Principal, McGill University Montreal.

STUDENTS TO START JUNE 26th.

tion League's representative in England states that members of the Faculty at Edinburgh are prepared to give special Lecture-Addresses and also that our students will be invited as special guests to the University Graduation Functions on July 17th, and 18th, if these dates fit in with the programme. He further states that professor Hudson Beare has personally undertaken to secure hospitality for 60 students through the members of the Faculty themselves. The Students' Union Society have a splendid club and wish to confer Honorary Membership on the members of the party for such time as they are in Edinburgh.

The Director of the British Empire Exhibition—Sir Travers Clarke—who is a member of the League's Advisory Council, has written the Honorary Organizer saying he wishes to do everything possible for the visit, and an interesting programme is thus assured.

Students with relatives in Great Britain of France can travel, of course, with the party and then assume responsibility for their own arrangements on the other side. The Overseas Education League will be glad to assist such students in every way, giving them the privilege of participating in the programme at such times as they wish. The League's only desire is to provide facilities for travel, and to adapt those facilities in every way to meet individual needs.

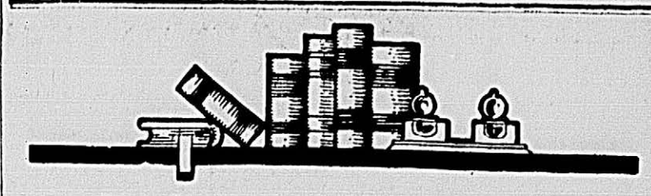

It has been pointed out that the time given in Great Britain to undergraduate visiting it for the first time, is all too short, and it is possible therefore that the visit to France may be an optional item of the programme. This depends on how much time is considered necessary in each centre, and on the development of the itinerary. This point cannot be settled therefore, until the Honorary Organiser hears again from the League's representative in England.

IF YOU OWNED A PACKARD

Would you drive your neighbour's Ford?

It is just as logical for McGill students to patronize other cafeterias and "eating houses" when they own their own Cafeteria.

With additional equipment and greater facilities than before, I am able to offer you better service and increased comfort. But, in addition, I invite you to compare the prices in the

with those of any other cafeteria in Montreal

SPEAKING OF STUDENT ACTIVITIES

And now that we are speaking of student activities, we might say a few words on that essentially American outgrowth of education. American universities were originally patteened after Continental ones, but to a modern observer, the great difference makes this almost unbelievable.

The European student goes to his Oxford, or his Paris or Louvain, takes up a residence, arranges to attend certain lectures, and lives a comparatively free life. His one point of contact with other students is the university, and the continental university is a place of learning. His friends, and his activities are purely an individual matter and are in no way a part of his university life. English universities, it is true, devote much time to sports, but they do it in a sporting way only and the American intercollegiate system is unknown there.

Here in the United States a college has a dozen different phases in it, all of which come to mind with the mere mention of the term "college." In American colleges, while a student incidentally comes to study and acquire wisdom and knowledge of a sort, he "goes in" for things. Preferably he goes into athletics. That is the surest and quickest way to fame, provided he is successful, of course. There are social activities—fraternities, social clubs; and semi-social ones—literary societies, honorary societies and the like.

Life is very complex for an American student. So much so, that a policing system has been devised, which, with modifications, is applied to regulate most of the details of life. Personal libt rey adnup

Personal liberty and pursuit of learning pure and simple are subjugated to group organization and cultivation of the ego which makes tangible success the thing to be desired.

* * *

The American university is evolving slowly toward something new. Like other institutions here, it is still in the melting pot. Sometimes it would seem that the original purpose for which our universities were founded will run off as slag when the metal is finally fused, and that our ultimate Parnassus will be a highly organized disciplined vocational school for the induction of the young into the national machine. Who can tell?

MY ROSARY.

The hours I spend with Cicero,
Are like a horrid dream to me.
I count them over, every one apart.
Oh, sympathy! Oh, sympathy!
Each hour a word, each word a gain
That lifts my soul from deep despair.
And as I struggle onward to the end
I slowly, softly swear, so softly swear.
Oh, words so meaningless to me,
Oh, phrases that will ne'er unite.
I yearn for thee, and try to find a way
Whereby you will sound right, you will sound right.
Concessive clauses bring me woe,
Gerundives, they perplex my brain.
And all is dark; no light at all I see.
And so I start again; I start again.
The hours drag on. No sleep for me.
The clock strikes with a doleful sound.
And as the day breaks o'er the eastern hill,
Behold, the verb is found, the verb is found.

Poverty Poem

Got a girl.
Her name's Sal.
Really is
Darned good gal.
Not good looking;
Not much sense;
Ain't so keen but
No expense.
She can't dance
Not a bit
So we always
Simply sit.
Darned good girl;
Not much sense,
Ain't so keen but
No expense.

Co-ed (at basketball game)—"Isn't that referee awful? Imagine calling fouls on our boys for holding!"

—Sheaf.

Freshette—"Oh, dear; I just can't adjust my curriculum!"

Frosh.—"That's all right. It doesn't show any."

Why is it that young widows are so charming?

Naturally, they know all about men, and the men that know about them are dead.
